Laying Down the Law: The Art and Science of Imposing Just Penalties

Assessing sanctions is one of the most important functions of a regulatory agency. Who among the participants in the process should have the authority to decide what penalty to impose? More importantly, what are the elements and objectives of a reasonable, fair and effective penalty policy and how does actual practice among regulatory agencies compare to this standard? This town-hall-style discussion format addresses these and related questions. Be sure to bring your experiences and opinions to this interactive session.

Best Practices in Informal Settlement Conferences/Show Compliance Proceedings

Practice tips and pointers for government and private sector attorneys. With agency cases often being resolved at the Informal Settlement Conference/Show Compliance (ISC) stage of administrative proceedings, the parties save money, time and resources while reducing the future need for high levels of stress tolerance for all involved. Making the most out of this opportunity is increasingly important for both government attorneys and defense counsel. The typical format and relative brevity of these proceedings require a focused and organized approach as well as an atmosphere of fairness and civility. Procedural and practical considerations frequently dictate just how beneficial the ISC will be. What works and doesn't work are lessons garnered from experience on both sides of the equation.

Vista Community Medical Center v. Texas Mutual Insurance Co.

This dispute, while centering on construction and application of the "stop-loss" exception in the workers' compensation Acute Care Inpatient Hospital Fee Guideline, raises questions of the effect of agency intent, the evolution of agency interpretation of its own rules, agency interpretation vs. rulemaking, the validity of agency rules, and Boll Weevil unconstitutional delegation—all in the context of a specific enabling statute. The strategies and arguments of the parties and the agency are discussed.

Deal or No Deal: Leveraging Available Information to Overcome Psychological Barriers to Efficient and Ethical Deals

Decision errors are expensive—especially in litigation. Drawing on law, economics and psychology, we explore ways to recognize and reduce such errors while improving communication. Animated outcome scenarios and decision trees focus parties on forward paths. That future focus helps crystallize decisions that may transform impasse to an efficient outcome.

Donald R. Philbin Jr., Donald R. Philbin, Jr., P.C., San Antonio, TX

Winning: Some Reflections and Empirical Observations about Challenging Agency Action

It's easy enough to appeal administrative agency action. Just file an original petition that incorporates a laundry-list motion for rehearing. Or broadly request a declaratory judgment that an agency rule is invalid. The harder question is whether and when filing suit is likely to bring any concrete relief for the aggrieved party. This presentation takes a look at suits that have succeeded and those that have not, and suggests factors worth considering before deciding to challenge agency action.

Overall great seminar!!

This was the most interesting CLE course I've ever attended—and I've been practicing law for 30 years. You all did a superb job presenting a wide variety of subjects and wonderful speakers.

The speakers were very good and their experience and abilities make this an advanced course.

I enjoyed and benefited from this program very much.

The speakers were excellent.

Best seminar I've attended this year.

ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

Presented by the Administrative and Public Law Section of the State Bar of Texas and The University of Texas School of Law, the Advanced Texas Administrative Law Seminar brings together practitioners and members of the judiciary, regulatory and academic communities. Come hear relevant presentations and meet with experienced practitioners and judges while earning up to 12.75 MCLE credit hours and 1.50 hours of ethics, all at a great low price!

Join us at the spectacular new AT&T Conference Center and Hotel on the campus of The University of Texas at Austin. Great rooms, great restaurants, great location.

Administrative and Public Law Section of the State Bar of Texas

The Administrative and Public Law Section of the State Bar of Texas consists of more than 1,000 licensed attorneys throughout Texas who represent clients before, or are employed by, a variety of state and federal agencies, boards and commissions. The Section's members also represent clients in state and federal judicial proceedings in which agency decisions or actions are litigated. The Section sponsors the Mack Kidd Administrative Law Moot Court Competition and also supports the Texas Tech Administrative Law Journal, included in Section membership.
