

You're a lawyer,
can I ask you
a question?

Cocktail Party Law: Answering Questions in Social Situations

November 28, 2017

Max's Wine Dive - 207 San Jacinto Blvd Austin, TX

$75 Individual | $100 after November 22 (includes light appetizers and beverage)

1.75 hrs. MCLE including 0.25 hr. Ethics

We've all been there. At a party, in an elevator, or among the produce at the supermarket, we run into acquaintances who start the conversation with "I have this friend" Next thing you know, you have what amounts to a law school hypothetical on a subject you haven't considered since, well ... law school.

Can you answer these questions without inadvertently becoming your acquaintance's lawyer? Can you answer these seemingly simple questions without feeling like a fool? We can help.

Cocktail Party Law: Answering Questions in Social Situations is designed to help attorneys answer common questions about employment issues, bankruptcy, wills, real estate, immigration, and criminal law. Hosted in a fun and casual setting, attendees hear from experienced practitioners about how to best answer these questions.

Register at utcle.org/conferences/CP17 or call 512.475.6700