A Practical Guide to Using the Internet for Fundraising, Communication and Community Building

Many nonprofits launch web sites which quickly become "frozen" due to infrequent updates and low site traffic; such sites frequently provide no measurable increase in donations or support. This session explores how nonprofits can enhance their web presence and communicate more authentically and effectively using email messaging, blogging, Flickr, Facebook, online auctions, and variations of instant messaging. It offers practical advice and examples on budgets, success stories, common board attitudes to new marketing approaches, and possible pitfalls in building, using and maintaining both traditional web sites and new web communication tools.

Greg McHale, Cambridge, MA

What Every Charitable Organization Needs to Know About the Unrelated Business Income Tax (UBIT)

The tough economic times keep getting tougher, which means that charities must be more creative with how they maintain, and even increase, their revenues. Volunteer attorneys who work with their local church, temple or mosque will learn issue spotting that is unique in religious organizations.

David L. Fish, Arlington, VA

11:30 a.m. .75 hr

Perfecting Donor Intent with a Pledge Agreement

This session will discuss situations (a) where the purpose for which the donation was made is no longer a priority for the charitable organization, which now wants to use the funds for a new purpose; and (b) where the donation far exceeds the purpose of the gift and the charity wishes to divert the excess money to a different purpose. Who has standing to act on behalf of the donor, who irrevocably gave away the funds, and (more importantly) how can a charitable gift be structured with a Pledge Agreement to provide flexibility to deal with the future's necessarily changed reality?
