Recent Developments in Claim Construction

The foundation of patent application preparation/prosecution, district court trials, Federal Circuit appeals, and AIA post-grant review proceedings, is claim construction. Review the important 2023-2024 claim construction cases and issues at the Federal Circuit and trial court levels, as well as at the PTAB. Examine the PTAB's procedural and substantive claim construction "rules, practices, and etc." Discuss adherence to the APA by the PTAB under various circumstances. And, discuss the claim construction interface between an IPR and a parallel district court proceeding.

Kenneth R. Adamo, Law Office of KRAdamo, Chicago, IL

Patent Litigation Funding

The world of litigation funding is becoming more established and complex. The panel discusses some of the latest developments in how courts have addressed disclosure and privilege issues, the impact of funding on litigation strategy, the cross-collateralization of patent portfolios, and how newly developing arenas of contingent risk insurance and other capital solutions are impacting the litigation funding world.

Globalization of Patent Law

Not long ago, a US patent attorney could effectively represent clients despite blissful ignorance of foreign patent law. That is changing, quickly. The speakers discuss the increasing internationalization of patent law, evidenced by developments such as the European Unified Patent Court, US case law awarding damages for foreign infringement of US patents, and international litigation and regulation in the area of standard essential patents.

How IP Practitioners Were Disciplined in 2023 – and How You Could Be Too

In addition to state bar rules, patent and trademark attorneys are also subject to the rules of conduct set out by the USPTO's Office of Enrollment and Discipline (OED). The speaker discusses the relevant ethical rules under the Code of Federal Regulations, as well as case studies from practitioners disciplined by the OED in 2023.

A View from ALAS on AI in Law Practice

This presentation addresses the benefits, risks, and professional responsibility considerations of using AI in the practice of law.

Randy J. Curato, ALAS, Ltd., Chicago, IL

3:00 p.m. .75 hr

Discretionary Denial of Post-Grant Trial

The AIA affords the USPTO Director significant discretion not to institute trial even where an IPR or PGR petition satisfies statutory standards for institution. Director guidance and the Board's multifactor tests for the exercise of discretion have evolved significantly, and formal regulations have now been proposed. A panel of current and former ALJs discusses this critical hurdle for petitioners and the opportunity for patent owners.

Red Flag Warning: Patent Stakeholders Beware Shifting Double Patenting and Terminal Disclaimer Practice

Both the courts and the USPTO are under pressure to address perceived problems with non-statutory obviousness-type double patenting rejections and terminal disclaimer practice. Let's navigate the shifting sands of patent practice in view of the Federal Circuit's wave-making obviousness-type double patenting decision last summer in In re: Collect, LLC and the USPTO's recent tsunami of a proposed rule that would upend current terminal disclaimer practice in response to obviousness-type double patenting rejections.
