IRA Administration for SNTs

A vast amount of wealth in the United States resides in qualified plans and IRAs. Thanks to unique provisions for people with disabilities created by the SECURE Act, SNT trustees have an amazing opportunity to manage inherited IRAs for their beneficiaries, potentially extending the longevity of a beneficiary's trust resources and avoiding onerous tax consequences. Illustrate how attorneys can best counsel trustees administering IRAs for SNTs. IRA funding, decedent complications, IRS deadlines, tax consequences, and Required Minimum Distributions will be reviewed, including a thorough assessment of SECURE Act regulations.

Gallardo v. Marsteller, the U.S. Supreme Court's New Approach to Medicaid Liens

Florida took the position that federal law permitted it to recover its past Medicaid payments from the portion of a personal injury settlement compensating for both past and future medical expenses and the U.S. Supreme Court agreed. This is a major deviation from prior precedent and practice and will result in injured Medicaid recipients being forced to pay more of their tort recoveries to Medicaid before the funding of Special Needs Trust. This decision will have a harsh impact on the catastrophically injured, especially injured children. Explore the contours of the decision and strategies for minimizing its impact.

Military Pension Assigned to SNT: Dealing with DFAS

Congress passed the Disabled Military Child Protection Act on Dec. 31, 2015, setting out provisions that allow a military parent or a legal guardian of a child with a disability to assign a military survivor pension to a d4A or d4C trust to avoid it counting as income or a resource for means-tested government benefit purposes. Procedures for accomplishing this assignment were included in the regulations to be followed by Defense Finance and Accounting Services (DFAS). Since the passage of the Act the procedures have become more specific, sometimes frustrating the beneficiaries or their guardians in implementing this process after the pension is due to be paid. Review the new requirements and steps to minimize the resistance the Trustees sometimes encounter in dealing with DFAS.

SSA Regional Trust Leads Presentation Regarding SSI Trusts

The SSI trust review business process requires evaluation of trusts that need a resource determination (such as new trusts or amended trusts) in all initial claim and post-eligibility events. Regional Trust Leads and Trust Reviewers evaluate trusts to determine if they meet the SSI eligibility requirements of (d)(4)(A) and (C). This session provides background information, describes the basic eligibility requirements, and provides applicable examples. In addition, hear the latest regarding recent Program Operations Manual System updates and the number of trust review cases SSA reviews.

Hazards of the Special Needs Trust Fairness Act – Assessing Beneficiary Capacity to Establish a SNT

The Special Needs Trust Fairness Act of 2015 paved the way for beneficiaries of d4A trusts to establish their own special needs trust. Practitioners now have a new challenge: capacity can be a moving target. Even if there has been no incapacity proceeding/determination of incapacity, it's not always obvious that the potential trust beneficiary has sufficient capacity to sign away their right to access their money, select appropriate Trustees and make residuary designations. Can the special needs practitioner assess capacity? If so, how? If not, what happens next?
