8:30 am 0.75 hr	Solar Development on Arizona State Trust Land Commissioner Hickman discusses the leasing provisions developed by the Arizona State Land Department to attract solar projects to Arizona's 9.3 million acres of State Trust land and explains how the Department has developed a mapping system to help identify and prioritize suitable property for solar development. An incentive for some solar developers is knowing that money earned by the Trust helps to fund Arizona's public schools and universities. In addition to three utility scale solar projects already sited on State Trust land, two dozen applications for additional projects are pending. Vanessa Hickman, Arizona State Land Department - Phoenix, AZ
9:15 am 1.00 hr	Natural Gas—Friend or Foe of Renewable Generation? The price of natural gas drives many of the decisions affecting future investment in the renewable energy sector, particularly for ERCOT. Public attention has recently focused on the rise of shale gas and other unconventional gas development in the United States. Is this new source of supply the solution to long-term energy needs? Would a long-term glut of natural gas suppress the price of both gas and electricity? The supply side of this issue is addressed, examining how much of these new reserves can be added and at what cost. Also, how are the independent power producers thinking about unconventional gas in terms of future investment in combined cycle plants? Moderator: M. Bradford Moody, Watt Beckworth Thompson Henneman & Sullivan LLP - Houston, TX Panelists: Arthur E.
