BENEFICIARY

Inna Cherevin is a 31-year old woman from the Ukraine. She has never been married and has no children. Inna was born in Odessa, Ukraine, and moved to Kiev when her father died, around her tenth birthday. She completed her studies in Kiev and hoped to fall in love and settle down. After various failed relationships, her friend Helena told her about Ukrainewomen.com. Helena knew some girls who had met rich American men and moved to the US to get married. Inna thought it sounded a little suspicious, but decided it was worth a try. After posting her profile on Ukrainewomen.com, Inna received several invitations and decided to meet one of the men with whom she corresponded at a Ukrainewomen.com singles mixer in Kiev.

PETITIONER

Steve Goldman is a 61-year old investment banker from San Antonio, Texas. He is twice divorced with three children from his second marriage. His first marriage ended quickly, and his second marriage was to a Canadian woman and lasted 14 years. After twelve years in the dating scene, Steve decided he needed some help finding a woman with traditional values and a lot of pep. He started looking online and stumbled upon Inna's profile on Ukrainewomen.com. They corresponded back and forth and had great rapport, so he decided to visit the Ukraine to meet her in person.

FIRST MEETING BETWEEN BENEIFICIARY AND PETITIONER

The first meeting between Steve and Inna was shy and tentative. Inna and Steve felt weird about finding each other online, and Steve had difficulty trusting that Inna wasn't after him for his money or a visa. Inna could tell he was a kind man, even if he was shy, and decided to go on a private date with him. During their first date, they discovered that they shared a similar outlook on life and enjoyed each other's company. Steve's first visit lasted three weeks, during which time he fell in love with Inna and decided that she was the one for him. He returned home and purchased an engagement ring. On his next trip to the Ukraine, he proposed and she accepted his proposal. Steve came home and hired an immigration attorney to help him with the fiancée visa process. It was long and arduous, and Steve felt like his lawyer never called him back or kept him updated about his case, but eventually Inna arrived in the United States to begin her life with Steve. Steve fired his lawyer and began to ask friends for referrals to another lawyer. He figured he would find someone in due time.

LIVING TOGETHER AND MARRIAGE

The first two months together were bliss. Inna loved the weather in San Antonio and was very happy when Steve came home from work. But, he worked a lot! Steve felt more alive than he had in years. Unfortunately, the sheen started to wear off after a couple of months. Steve felt like Inna spent too much money and was a little too dependent. She wasn't taking initiative in her life— she had no friends and was needy and clingy. After a demanding period at work, Steve decided that he needed a break from Inna before deciding whether he was really ready to marry her.

Steve helped Inna find an apartment and told her he needed to take some time away from her because he was feeling crowded. She was devastated, but knew that the only way to make this work was to let him have his space so he could realize how much he really did appreciate her. It was hard, but she avoided calling him every day and spent her free time taking lessons in things she had always wanted to learn – sewing, ballroom dance, and drumming. In her classes, she met many new friends and acquaintances and started going out with her friends. One night, Steve saw Inna at the Coyote Ugly bar with some friends and she was dancing on top of the bar. There were a few guys giving her attention, and Steve did not like it at all. The next day, he called her to ask if she would move back in with him, and she happily agreed. Inna lived in her apartment for one month before she moved back in with Steve. Steve was in a hurry to be married, so they went to the Justice of the Peace and had a quick wedding ceremony. They filed for adjustment of status one year later.
