Passive Violations of the Automatic Stay

Know When to Hold 'Em, Know When to Fold 'Em

Evan J. Atkinson
Waller Lansden Dortch & Davis, LLP
Austin, Texas
(512) 685-6467
evan.atkinson@wallerlaw.com

Jason Enright
Winstead, PC
Dallas, Texas
(214) 745-5844
jenright@winstead.com

waller

1

Outline of Presentation

- In re Fulton
  - Facts
  - City's Argument
  - Debtors' Argument
  - 7th Circuit's Holding
- Appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court
- Hypotheticals
- Questions

WINSTEAD ATTORNEYS

waller

2

In re Fulton, 926 F.3d 916 (7th Cir. 2019)

WINSTEAD ATTORNEYS

waller

Facts of the Case

- Four separate debtors' cars were impounded by the City of Chicago prior to the commencement of their chapter 13 cases
- Following commencement of the bankruptcy cases, the City refused to return the vehicles and filed unsecured claims
- In several cases, the Bankruptcy Courts sanctioned the City and ordered the return of the vehicles, yet the City still refused to return the vehicles
- Following confirmation of the debtors' plans, the City again refused to return the vehicles and, in some cases, demanded that their claims be treated as secured

WINSTEAD ATTORNEYS

waller

Procedural History

- Direct consolidated appeal to the 7th Circuit

WINSTEAD ATTORNEYS

waller

City's Arguments on Appeal

- Section 362(a)(3) operates as a stay of any act that would alter the status quo and retaining property lawfully obtained prepetition only maintains the status quo
- The automatic stay does not render a creditor's possession of collateral unlawful where the creditor lawfully repossessed or impounded collateral before bankruptcy
- There is no clear indication that Congress intended to erode past bankruptcy practice when it amended § 362(a)(3) to include "exercise control"
- The stay against acts to exercise control only apply to intangible property interests that might otherwise fall outside the scope of acts to "obtain possession" of estate property
- Debtors' interpretation of § 362(a)(3) would render § 542(a) superfluous
- Although § 542(a) imposes a mandatory duty to turn over estate property, it is not self-executing, and there are defenses/exceptions the creditor could raise (E.g., lack of adequate protection)
- Reading § 362(a)(3) to compel immediate turnover is inconsistent with Strumpf

WINSTEAD ATTORNEYS

waller

Also available as part of the eCourse
[2020 Jay L. Westbrook Bankruptcy eConference]

First appeared as part of the conference materials for the 39th Annual Jay L. Westbrook Bankruptcy Conference session
"Passive Violations of the Automatic Stay - Know When to Hold ‘Em, Know When to Fold ‘Em"