The Top Ten: # 10

Bernard v. Minnesota, Nos. 14-1470, 14-1468, & 14-1507

Argued April 20, 2016

Issue: Whether, in the absence of a warrant, a state may make it a crime for a person to refuse to take a chemical test to detect the presence of alcohol in the person's blood.

Prediction: Narrow holding rejecting warrantless breath tests in circumstances where warrants can be obtained on an expedited basis; careful avoidance of any decision about blood tests.
