Individual Grants are an Important Catalyst for Change...

- At times of crisis or rapid transformation, when other forms of engagement may be too hazardous, slow, or ineffective.
- When the demands of field-building or seeding a new area of inquiry require individual initiative and creativity.
- When operating in politically constrained environments, where other options are foreclosed.
- When building human capacity is the approach most likely to bring about a breakthrough.
- When existing institutions are stagnating or in disarray.

Common Threshold Framing Questions

- ☐ Is the grant for travel, study, or similar purposes?
- ☐ Is the individual performing a service, or is the grant for his or her benefit?
- ☐ Is the grant to an organization, even though the ultimate recipient is an individual?
- ☐ Is the grant to recognize past achievements?
