Definitions for our Purposes

- Campaign creator: person (or organization) who creates crowdfunding campaign (creates account on website, writes story, shares campaign on social media)
- Recipient - person who can withdraw/receive funds paid into the account; the recipient is designated by the creator; can be the beneficiary
- Beneficiary – the person for whom the money is raised

 Terms vary by website*

Who's the Beneficiary?

- Jane, creator, establishes campaign for nephew, Joel, age 2, who needs heart surgery. Jane names her brother, Jack, as the recipient. Jack uses funds to repay himself for unmet medical expenses, home health care, bills, etc. Who's the beneficiary?
- Joel is now 28. His girlfriend loaned money to pay for all costs of last surgery. New campaign begins to repay loan. Who's the beneficiary?

Orlando Shooting
