Our Agenda

- Where is Chevron going—and who decides?
 - A new Justice and a new Administration
 - Where the Supreme Court has been taking Chevron and Auer
 - Where the Supreme Court might take Chevron and Auer
- Federal Administrative Law Update
 - Supreme Court
 - D.C. Circuit
 - Fifth Circuit

Judicial Deference to Executive Interpretations:

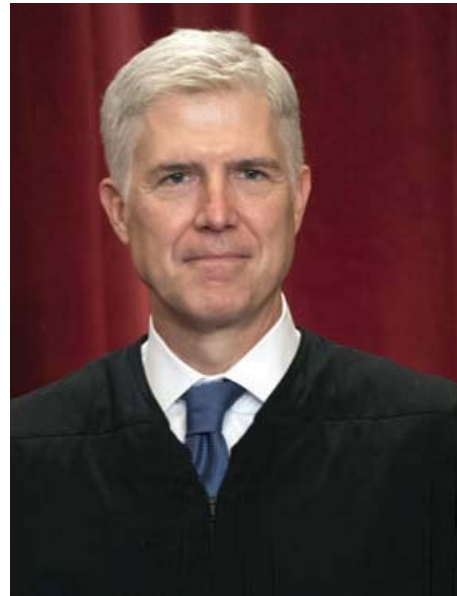

Where We've Been
and Where We Might Be Going

Chevron v. NRDC (1984)

The original “two step”—

- (1) “whether Congress has directly spoken to the precise question at issue. If the intent of Congress is clear, that is the end of the matter”
- (2) if not, “the question ... is whether the agency's answer is based on a permissible construction of the statute.”

Chevron v. NRDC (1984)

More variations

- Chevron "Step Zero" (Mead) —should Chevron even apply?
 - "major questions" (King v. Burwell)
 - procedural impropriety (Encinco Motorcars)
 - but not jurisdictional questions (City of Arlington v. FCC)
- Chevron "Step 1.5" (Prill) —should Court defer to agency interpretation of ambiguous provision when agency didn't recognize the ambiguity?
