Lis Pendens

- It's a Notice, not a lien (see next slide!)

Filing or Defending Against a Lis Pendens Lien

When someone wants to file a lawsuit regarding a piece of real estate or a real estate title, the first step is to file a lis pendens lien with the local real estate records office. This serves as a notice to other parties with an interest in the property, including potential buyers, lessors or investors. A lis pendens lien will make it very difficult to close any real estate transactions. We represent Texas businesses that need to:

- 1- File a lis pendens lien: If you are going to file a lawsuit on a piece of property, filing the lien may safeguard against any title transfers before your dispute is resolved.
- 1- Expunge a lis pendens lien: If a lien has been placed against your property, we can take steps on your behalf and have it expunged.

Real Estate Litigation and Lis Pendens

Whether you have filed a lis pendens lien or one has been placed against property you own, a lawsuit will follow. With an extensive real estate litigation practice, we can protect your rights from the moment the lien is followed all the way to court.
