2

- HB 4474 by Representative Parker and Senator Paxton – Amends Texas Business & Commerce Code (“TBCC”) to address virtual currency
- HB 3131 by Representative Cole and Senator Hancock – Requiring an initial mailing address to be included in a certificate of formation of a new filing entity
- HB 1875 by Representative Landgraf (Did not pass) – Relating to the creation of Texas Business Courts and a Court of Business Appeals to hear certain large and complicated lawsuits

SB 1203 – Omnibus TBOC Amendments

- Choice of forum provisions in governing documents of Texas entities
  - Authorizes provisions that can require all internal entity claims to be brought only in courts (federal and/or state) located in Texas
  - Requirement must be consistent with applicable state and federal jurisdictional requirements
  - “Internal entity claims” = claims (including derivative claims) based upon, arising from or relating to the internal affairs of the entity as defined in existing TBOC §1.105
  - Internal affairs of an entity include: (1) rights, powers and duties of governing persons, officers, owners and members and (2) matters relating to its membership or ownership interests
  - Modeled in part on DGCL 115, which has been upheld in several court cases

- Registration of foreign entities to transact business in Texas
  - New exclusion for foreign entity that is acting as governing person of domestic entity or foreign entity registered to transact business in Texas
  - Intended to cure ambiguities created by Texas Attorney General Opinion JM-7 dated March 10, 1983
- Revisions to emergency provisions in TBOC Chapter 3, Subchapter F
  - Expands definition of emergency events that trigger “emergency period” - now includes epidemic, pandemic, hurricane, tornado, riot or civil disturbance, governmental emergency declaration and other emergency situations
  - Governing document provisions that apply only during “emergency period” can be adopted by governing persons and owners – can limit or prohibit various specified procedural requirements for meetings of governing persons

- Governing authority of Texas entity can take “emergency action” during emergency period without satisfying specified procedural requirements for meetings of governing persons
- Emergency actions are protected if taken in good faith and based on reasonable belief that they were in entity’s best interests
- Better enabling virtual shareholder meetings by means of remote communications
  - Relaxing rules somewhat to match Delaware GCL requirements
  - Participating shareholders or proxyholders must have reasonable opportunity to vote at the meeting and to read or hear meeting proceedings substantially concurrently with those proceedings
