Stock Purchase

- Description
 - Buyer purchases stock of another company directly from the stockholders
- Primary Use
 - Frequently used when target stock is not widely held (e.g., acquisition of closely held company or subsidiary of another company)
- Advantages
 - Buyer acquires all of the assets of the target - no need to specifically identify and define all acquired assets necessary to continue operating target business
 - Generally target liabilities isolated in target and do not become buyer liabilities
 - Generally target contracts remain in place without consent of third parties (unless a contract contains a "change of control" provision)
 - May not require target board approval
 - Does not trigger appraisal rights
- Disadvantages
 - Buyer indirectly inherits all liabilities of the target (although isolated within target)
 - Must obtain agreement from every selling stockholder
 - No "step up" in tax basis of target assets (unless 338 election made)
