Parker v. Jordan, 659 S.W.3d 680 (Tex. 2022)

Held: The SCOT affirmed the court of appeals (see April 2022 Smith CLE Update) applying the rule in Clark v. Gauntt, 161 S.W. 270 (Tex. Comm'n. Op. 1942, adopted), in holding that a 1998 gift deed of "all of [his] right, title and interest in and to" certain land to his daughters transferred only the donor's present fractional interest in the property, not the donor's separate future expectancy, because the gift deed failed to expressly state an intent to transfer the expectancy and because the present life tenant had complete power to dispose of the property in fee simple. Thus, the donor had only an expectancy, not a vested remainder. A grantor may convey an expectancy only through a clearly manifested intent to do so. This rule protects grantors from inadvertently conveying expectancies or future interests they may not know they hold and never intended to convey.
