

Yet Another Acrimonious Election Year: The Challenge of Political Talk at Work (and on Social Media)

Presenter

Erika L. Leonard (Ogletree Deakins, Austin)

1

Why Is This Topic So Important?

- ▶ People don't just talk any more.
 - ▶ They friend, post, blog, comment, like, etc.
 - ▶ They chat, slack, IM, DM ...
 - ▶ Privately, ... and at work.
- ▶ And they have opinions. A lot of opinions.
- ▶ All of these communications have practical and legal implications for our workplaces.

2

Why Is This Topic So Important?

- ▶ Whether “real” or not, we perceive our society, communities, and workplaces are more polarized than ever.
 - ▶ Race, color, national origin, and ancestry
 - ▶ Gender, gender identity, and expression
 - ▶ Religion
 - ▶ Socioeconomics
 - ▶ Politics and political issues
 - ▶ Personal belief systems

Why Is This Topic So Important?

- ▶ Polarization (real or perceived) has workplace consequences.
 - ▶ Operational challenges, including safety
 - ▶ Results in policy violations and legal exposure
 - ▶ Antithesis of respectful, collaborative, and engaged workforce most companies trying to create and support

What's an Employer to Do?

- ▶ The laws that apply
- ▶ Employer policies
- ▶ Other, non-legal considerations
 - ▶ Employee morale
 - ▶ Corporate culture
 - ▶ Public perception/relations
- ▶ Special considerations of lawyers' speech

“Free speech”

- ▶ U.S. Constitution, First Amendment:
 - ▶ Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.
