VOTE ON THE OUTCOME:

Dr. Expert testifies: I examined the patient, I am double board certified as both an orthopedic surgeon and a pain management doctor. I testify, to a reasonable degree of medical probability – actually, to a medical CERTAINTY – the Plaintiff's herniated discs in neck and back were caused by the motor vehicle collision. He needed the multiple diskectomies and fusions, which I performed, because of the wreck. [And proves up reasonable and necessary bills.]

Defendant does not object to this evidence at trial.

Defendant does not object to this evidence at the Court of Appeals.

Defendant objects for the first time on appeal to the Texas Supreme Court that the evidence is legally insufficient to support your $3.8M judgment.

Who thinks the Plaintiff keeps his judgment?

Conclusory Testimony From an Expert is No evidence.

Reverse and Render.

"conclusory statements cannot support a judgment even when no objection was made to the statements at trial." Coastal Trans. Co. (Tex. 2004)

3

Legal Sufficiency vs Factual Sufficiency

Legal Sufficiency: Supreme Court evaluates and is to view the evidence in the light most favorable to the judgment. Reverse and render if evidence is not legally sufficient = no evidence:

- a. No evidence, or merely a scintilla of evidence
- b. A reasonable and fair-minded person cannot reach the verdict
- c. If an expert is required, but no expert testifies, then there is no evidence (even if there are supportive lay witnesses)
- d. If an expert does not explain how and why their opinion is valid, then their opinion is mere ipse dixit and is no evidence
- e. Expert must rule out alternative plausible theories (as plaintiff's burden, not the defendant's)
- f. If the expert's methodology is unreliable, then their opinion is no evidence

Remand back to Court of Appeals to determine factual sufficiency if > scintilla of evidence

Legal Sufficiency vs Factual Sufficiency

Factual Sufficiency: evaluated by Court of Appeals

Examines the evidence that both supports and contradicts the jury's verdict in a neutral light.

Verdict is against the greater weight of the credible evidence; or

The evidence that supports the finding is so weak as to make the verdict clearly wrong and manifestly unjust.

Actions by Tex. Court of Appeals: TRAP 43.2 and 43.3: affirm, modify, reverse and render, reverse and remand, dismiss case, dismiss appeal.

Relevant evidence is admissible unless any of the following provides otherwise:

- * the United States or Texas Constitution;
- * a statute;
- * these rules; or
- other rules prescribed under statutory authority.

Irrelevant evidence is not admissible.

Tex. R. Evid. 402

"[A] party may assert on appeal that unreliable scientific evidence or expert testimony is not only inadmissible, but also that its unreliability makes it legally insufficient to support a verdict. Whirlpool Corp. v. Camacho
