Consumer Financial Protection Bureau:
Non-Financial Firms Now in the Crosshairs?

The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau is a powerful enforcement agency with aggressive leadership. Banks and other financial institutions are rightly focused on understanding the Bureau's evolving priorities, objectives, and strategies, but a key part of the Bureau's stated enforcement and supervision strategy is expanding its reach into "non-financial" firms that have a significant role in the financial lives of consumers, with an emphasis on the technology industry. This panel discusses where the Bureau is headed, the legal theory underpinning its strategy, and what non-financial firms can do to prepare.

Keynote Presentation: The Department's Efforts to Combat Financial and Corporate Crime

Through its policies and its prosecutions of individuals and corporations, the Department of Justice is focused on encouraging corporations to proactively target misconduct, empower corporate compliance officers, and incentivize individuals to come forward to report potential misconduct as soon as it is identified. The Department of Justice's Criminal Division has used a combination of cutting-edge data analytics techniques, traditional law enforcement tools, and a focus on compliance to root out fraud and corrupt conduct.

THANK YOU TO OUR STRATEGIC PARTNER

The Women's White Collar Defense Association (WWCDA) is a coalition of women attorneys and other professionals who specialize in the white collar criminal defense field. These women are members of WWCDA chapters around the world and focus their practices on representing corporations, other organizations and individuals facing government enforcement actions (criminal, civil, regulatory, and administrative), and in internal investigations, compliance and ethics matters. Many of the WWCDA chapter members previously served in government positions and in corporate roles. Notable members include former corporate General Counsels and Chief Compliance Officers, as well as former prosecutors and high ranking government officials. www.wcda.org
