10:30 am 0.75 hr	Gandy/Seeger: Assignments and Actual Trials Explore Gandy and Seeger and their progeny, with a focus on courts requiring an actual trial before a judgment is binding on an insurer. Judicial exceptions are addressed, as well as the assignability of contractual, statutory and tort causes of action by an insured against an insurer to others, and the limitations placed upon such assignments by the courts. Diana L. Faust, Cooper & Scully, P.C. - Dallas, TX John T. Smithee, Templeton Smithee Hayes Heinrich Russell LLP - Amarillo, TX
11:15 am 0.50 hr	Insurer Duty to Indemnify: Before Judgment or Settlement? For decades, an insurer knew it had no duty to indemnify, if it had no duty to defend. The Texas Supreme Court, however, upended that well-settled issue in D.R. Horton-Tex., Ltd. v. Markel Int'l Ins. Co. , meaning that insurers who have properly denied a defense may have to make difficult coverage decisions when an insured demands indemnity for a settlement or a judgment. Based on recent Supreme Court precedent, may a court rule on the duty to indemnify prior to judgment or settlement? Cathlynn H. Cannon, Wilson Elser - Dallas, TX
