Financing Panel

We’ve seen tremendous growth in RE investment and surging deal counts, with more renewables entering the grid than ever before. However, there are many key project finance considerations that investors and sponsors need to assess, including looming project finance headwinds over the next 2-3 years, financing structures best suited to keep pace with demand, the effect of direct pay, Capital deployment risks to investors who are new to energy / clean energy, and the effect of inflation on financing.

1:30 p.m. 1.00 hr ethics

Ethics and the Duty to Loyalty

The lawyer’s fiduciary responsibilities are at the core of ethics programs everywhere, and include the duty to refrain from conflicts of interest. But in a modern society, where lawyers freely move between large firms with sophisticated clients, should the firm and client have a right to waive such traditional conflicts of interest to hire new talent? There is a growing movement to allow firms and lawyers to provide advance consent to situations which are currently barred by conflict of interest rules, as well as organized opposition to “taking the wrecking ball to client loyalty.” Find out what’s going on and see what you think!

Robert Denby, Vinson & Elkins LLP, Houston, TX
Claude E. Ducloux, Attorney at Law, Austin, TX

2:30 p.m. .75 hr

Trends in Restoration Requirements and Forms of Restoration

Explore the current landscape of restoration requirements for utility-scale renewable energy projects—from lease provisions to state laws.
