2015 Texas Estate and Trust Legislative Update

(Including Probate, Guardianships, Trusts,
Powers of Attorney, and Other Related Matters)

© 2015, William D. Pargaman, All Rights Reserved.

1. The Preliminaries.

1.1 Introduction and Scope. The 84th Regular Session of the Texas Legislature spans the 140 days beginning January 13, 2015, and ending June 1, 2015. This paper presents a summary of the bills that relate to probate (i.e., decedents' estates), guardianships, trusts, powers of attorney, and several other areas of interest to estate and probate practitioners. Issues of interest to elder law practitioners are touched upon, but are not a focus of this paper.

1.2 CMA Disclaimers. While reading this paper, please keep in mind the following:

- I've made every reasonable attempt to provide accurate descriptions of the contents of bills, their effects, and in some cases, their background.
- Despite rumors to the contrary, I am human. And have been known to make mistakes.
- In addition, some of the descriptions in this paper admittedly border on editorial opinion, in which case the opinion is my own, and not necessarily that of REPTL, Craig Hopper, or anyone else.
- I often work on this paper late at night, past my normal bedtime, perhaps, even, under the influence of strategic amounts of Johnnie Walker Black (donations of Red, Black, Green, Gold, Blue, Platinum, or even Swing happily accepted!).
- Finally, the descriptions contained in this paper, while hopefully accurate at the time they were written, may no longer accurately reflect the contents of a bill at a later stage in the legislative process.

Therefore, you'll find directions in Section 1.5 on page 2 below for obtaining copies of the actual bills themselves so you may review and analyze them yourself before relying on any information in this paper.

1.3 If You Want to Skip to the Good Stuff ... If you don't want to read the rest of these preliminary matters and want to skip to the legislation itself,¹ you'll find it beginning with Part 6 on page 6 below.

1.4 Acknowledgments. A lot of the effort in every legislative session comes from the Real Estate, Probate, and Trust Law Section of the State Bar of Texas. REPTL, with its 8,000+ members, has been active in proposing legislation in this area for more than three decades. During the year and a half preceding a session, the REPTL Council works hard to come up with a package that addresses the needs of its members and the public, and then works to get the package enacted into law. Thanks go to:

- Craig Hopper of Austin, Chair, Estate and Trust Legislative Affairs Committee; and principal presenter of this paper
- Lisa Jamieson of Fort Worth, Immediate Past Section Chair
- Bill Pargaman of Austin, Section Chair-Elect/Secretary; Immediate Past Chair, Estate and Trust Legislative Affairs Committee; and principal author of this paper²
- Eric Reis of Dallas, Chair, Decedents' Estates Committee
- Laura Upchurch of Brenham, Chair, Guardianship Committee
- Marjorie Stephens of Dallas and Jeffrey Myers of Fort Worth, Co-Chairs, Trusts Committee
- Kristi Elsom of Houston, Chair, Designated Agents and Directives Committee
- Clint Hackney of Austin, Lobbyist

¹ Presumably because you've read it in one of my previous legislative updates, and not because you find my writing somewhat less than scintillating.

² Yes, I'm thanking myself!

- Barbara Klitch of Austin, who provides invaluable service tracking legislation for REPTL

REPTL is helped along the way by the State Bar, its Board of Directors, and its excellent staff (in particular, KaLyn Laney, Assistant Deputy Director).

Other groups have an interest in legislation in this area, and REPTL tries to work with them to mutual advantage. These include the statutory probate judges (Judge Guy Herman of Austin, Presiding Statutory Probate Judge) and the Wealth Management and Trust Division of the Texas Bankers Association (George Bruns of San Antonio, Chair, Michael Milich of Houston, Governmental Relations Chair, and Celeste Embrey, Executive Director).

Last, but of course not least, are the legislators and their capable staffs. In the 2015 session, sponsors of REPTL legislation include Rep. Senfronia Thompson of Houston, Rep. John Wray of Waxahachie, Sen. José Rodríguez of El Paso, Sen. Judith Zaffirini of Laredo, and Sen. Joan Huffman of Houston.

Thanks go to all of these persons, their staffs, and the many others who have helped in the past and will continue to do so in the future.

Hopefully, the effort that goes into the legislative process will become apparent to the reader. In the best of circumstances, this effort results in passing good bills and blocking bad ones. But in the real world of legislating, the best of circumstances is never realized.

1.5 Obtaining Copies of Bills. If you want to obtain copies of any of the bills discussed here, go to www.legis.state.tx.us. Near the top of the page, in the middle column, you'll see Search Legislation. First, select the legislative session you wish to search (for example, the 2015 regular legislative session that spans from January through May is "84(R) - 2015). Select the Bill Number button, and then type your bill number in the box below. So, for example, if you wanted to find the Decedents' Estates bill prepared by the Real Estate, Probate, and Trust Law Section of the State Bar of Texas ("REPTL"), you'd type "HB_____" and press Go. (It's fairly forgiving – if you type in lower case, place periods after the H and the B, or include a space before the actual number, it's still likely to find your bill.)

Then click on the Text tab. You'll see multiple versions of bills. The "engrossed" version is the one that passes the chamber where a bill originated. When an engrossed version of a bill passes the other chamber without amendments, it is returned to the originating chamber where it is "enrolled." If the other chamber does make changes, then when it is returned, the originating chamber must concur in those amendments before the bill is enrolled. Either way, it's the "enrolled" version you'd be interested in.

2. The People and Organizations Most Involved in the Process.

A number of organizations and individuals get involved in the legislative process:

2.1 REPTL. The Real Estate, Probate and Trust Law Section of the State Bar of Texas, acting through its Council. Many volunteer Section members who are not on the Council give much of their time, energy and intellect in formulating REPTL-carried legislation. REPTL is not allowed to sponsor legislation or oppose legislation without the approval of the Board of Directors of the State Bar. There is no provision to support legislation offered by someone other than REPTL, and the ability of REPTL to react during the legislative session is hampered by the necessity for Bar approval. Therefore, REPTL must receive prior permission to carry the proposals discussed in this paper that are identified as REPTL proposals. REPTL has hired Clint Hackney, who has assisted with the passage of REPTL legislation for many sessions.

2.2 The Statutory Probate Judges. The vast majority of probate and guardianship cases are heard by the judges of the Statutory Probate Courts (18 of them in 10 counties). Judge Guy Herman of the Probate Court No. 1 of Travis County (Austin) is the Presiding Statutory Probate Judge and has been very active in promoting legislative solutions to problems in our area for many years.

2.3 The Bankers. There are two groups of bankers that REPTL deals with. One is the Wealth Management and Trust Division of the Texas Bankers Association ("TBA"), which tends to represent the larger corporate fiduciaries, while the other is the Independent Bankers Association of Texas ("IBAT"), which tends to represent the smaller corporate fiduciaries, although the distinctions are by no means hard and fast.

2.4 The Texas Legislative Council. Among other duties, the Texas Legislative Council provides bill drafting and research services to the Texas Legislature and legislative agencies. All proposed legislation must be reviewed (and usually revised) by the Legislative Council before a Representative or Senator may introduce it. In addition, as part of its continuing statutory revision program, the Legislative Council was the primary drafter of the Texas Estates Code, a nonsubstantive revision of the Texas Probate Code.

2.5 The Authors and Sponsors. All legislation needs an author, the Representative or Senator who
