

GDPR Readiness in 2017

Presented at the 30th Annual University of Texas Technology Law Conference
May 25, 2017

Elizabeth Rogers | rogersel@gtlaw.com | 512-320-7256
Lisa Zolidis | lisa.zolidis@dell.com
Sabina Jausovec-Salinas | sjausovec@walmart.com

EU General Data Protection Regulation

- > Effective May 25, 2018
- > Multi-layered comprehensive regulation for the protection of personal data regarding EU residents
- > Reaffirms some existing EU legal requirements; Adds some others
- > Huge potential penalties for non-compliance: up to 2% or 4% annual global revenues, depending on provision violated

GDPR Readiness I 2017 2

EU General Data Protection Regulation

- > Reduction of administrative burden
 - National registrations & prior authorization registrations will be abolished
 - BUT each data controller (& processor) will have to maintain detailed records of its data processing activities
- > If my company is based outside the EU does the GDPR apply?

Preparing for the GDPR

Assess Readiness

Assess Readiness

- > Review comprehensive list of requirements
 - Transparency
 - Collection and purpose limitation
 - Consent
 - Data quality
 - Vendor oversight
 - Privacy program management
 - Security
 - Data breach readiness

Find the full text of this and thousands of other resources from leading experts in dozens of legal practice areas in the UT Law CLE eLibrary \(utcle.org/elibrary\)

Title search: GDPR Readiness in 2017

Also available as part of the eCourse

2017 Technology Law eConference

First appeared as part of the conference materials for the 30th Annual Technology Law Conference session

"GDPR Readiness in 2017"