Corporate Records Maintenance by Seller

- Diligence files / data room should be maintained at all times
 - Leverage from prior financing events
 - Permits rapid response without notifying entire organization
- Maintain stockholder lists and addresses
 - Frequent communication updates
 - Also helps to avoid surprises
 - Ability to email documents to stockholders
- Understand and maintain liquidation model
 - Include all equityholders and individual payouts
 - Be prepared to proactively implement incentives depending on realistic valuation estimates even if no sale process looming
 - Management carve-outs and incentives
 - Equity grants must be distanced from event / commencement of sale process, receipt of offers, indications of value, LOIs

Contractual Diligence Issues

- Exclusivity
- Most Favored Customer (MFC) or “MFN” clauses
- Uncapped future support / indemnity obligations (esp IP indemnity)
- Overbroad or unrealistic ongoing obligations (e.g. data privacy)
- Where applicable, inadequate or overburden some data privacy provisions
- Exclusions from limitations of liability and waiver of consequential damages
- Assignability issues
- Non-terminable leases
- Bank prepayment penalties
- Sole source suppliers
- Non-compete / non-solicits against the company
- IP assignments (e.g. work for hire in service agreements), co-ownership of IP
- Overly broad or restrictive confidentiality agreements
- Warrants that do not automatically terminate upon a change of control
- Continuing (or ambiguous) investor agreements
