

HUSCH BLACKWELL

DuaneMorris®

Telehealth and Innovations in Technology

Julian Rivera and Lisa W. Clark

Friday, May 24, 2019 | 3:05 PM Central

The University of Texas School of Law
2019 Technology Law Conference

DuaneMorris®

HUSCH BLACKWELL

1

“Telehealth” in the “Digital Health” Ecosystem

Technology Functions in Health Care

Telehealth represents the interactive, electronic exchange of information for the purpose of diagnosis, intervention, or ongoing care management between a patient and/or health care providers situated remotely.

Patient-to-Provider

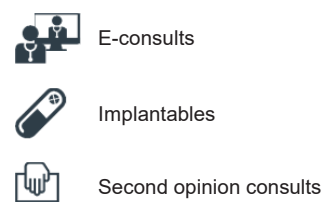

Telehealth Modalities

Real-time virtual visits

Remote patient monitoring

Asynchronous store-and-forward

Provider-to-Provider

DuaneMorris®

© 2019 Husch Blackwell LLP

HUSCH BLACKWELL

2

2

New Advances in Tech Propel Interest in Telehealth

Notable Telehealth FDA Clearances

KardiaBand

Medical device accessory that uses Apple Watch to capture an EKG, enabling detection of atrial fibrillation

Cochlear Nucleus Implant System

Remote programming capabilities for cochlear hearing implants

Abilify MyCite

Ingestible "smart pill" with digital sensors designed to monitor medication adherence

Tech Giants Targeting Telehealth

Telehealth Regulatory Issues List

- Professional Conduct
 - Physician Licensure
 - State Medical Board Regulations
 - Informed Consent
 - Physician-Patient Relationship
 - Prescribing (States, Ryan Haight Act)
- Technology
 - FDA – Medical Devices
 - FCC – Wireless Spectrum
 - FTC – Advertising
- Data Privacy and Security
 - OCR
 - HIPAA/HITECH
 - Cloud
 - FTC – Breach Notification Rule
 - ONC – Standard Development & Coordination
 - State Privacy and Security Laws
- Compliance
 - Reimbursement
 - Stark
 - Anti-Kickback
 - State kickback laws

Find the full text of this and thousands of other resources from leading experts in dozens of legal practice areas in the UT Law CLE eLibrary \(utcle.org/elibrary\)

Title search: Telehealth and Innovations in Technology

Also available as part of the eCourse

2019 Technology Law eConference

First appeared as part of the conference materials for the 32nd Annual Technology Law Conference session

"Telehealth and Innovations in Technology"