Corporate Compliance Programs Can Serve a Host of Purposes

A company's industry, region, ownership structure, and applicable laws may require compliance with:

- State anti-bribery laws regarding any public official, such as Tex. Penal Code Chapter 36
- Federal anticorruption laws prohibiting bribery of foreign officials, such as the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act ("FCPA"), 15 U.S.C. §§ 78dd-1, et seq.,
- Specifically regulated industries (healthcare, oil & gas, financial services, etc.)

The FCPA’s 2 Components

- Anti-Bribery
 - Procurement Example: A U.S. company was trying to enter into a contract to sell product to a foreign government-owned company. The head of the procurement department told them he would give them the contract if they gave him 1% of every transaction. He bragged that his nickname was Mr. One Percent.
 - Permit Example: Walmart entered into a $282 million settlement with SEC and DOJ over allegations that it had weak anti-corruption internal controls in Brazil, China, India, and Mexico that failed to catch that the company employed third-party intermediaries who made payments to foreign government officials in order to obtain construction permits.
- Books & Records violations
 - Applies to companies that have to file reports with the SEC
