Overview of the Dobbs Decision

- Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization challenged 2018 Mississippi law that banned virtually all abortion after 15th week of pregnancy
- HOLDING: The Constitution does not expressly or implicitly protect the right to choose abortion and leaves it to the states to regulate
 - Laws regulating abortion are entitled to a "strong presumption of validity" and will be upheld unless there is no "rational basis on which the legislature could have thought [the law] would serve legitimate state interests"
 - Roe v. Wade; Planned Parenthood of Southeastern Pennsylvania, etc. overturned
- PRACTICAL RESULT: States allowed to ban abortion, trigger laws and pre-Roe statutes in effect, rapidly shifting legal landscape

Scope of Restrictive State Laws (as of Jan 10, 2023)

Scope of Restrictive State Laws (as of Jan 10, 2023), con't

▪ Access Restrictions:

- 25 states have laws that restrict access to abortion prior to viability
- 16 states have criminal laws that prohibit nearly all abortion (4 currently subject to injunctions)
- 3 states have criminal laws that prohibit abortion after the detection of a fetal heartbeat (6 weeks) (2 currently subject to injunctions)
- 2 states prohibit abortion after 15 weeks
- 4 states prohibit abortion after 20 weeks, one of which is currently subject to an injunction.
- Several states have multiple prohibitions (e.g., a trigger law that prohibits all abortions and a higher threshold based on the gestational age of the fetus)

- Civil Laws: Oklahoma and Texas allow a range of private citizens to file suits to enforce violations and recover civil penalties
