

Student Suicide: Mental Health and Legal Response

HEATHER R. RUTLAND
SHAREHOLDER

EICHELBAUM WARDELL
HANSEN POWELL & MUÑOZ, P.C.

RICARDO "RICK" BENAVIDES,
III

1

Student Suicide on the Rise

- Sobering statistics nationwide
- Increasingly likely for very young students
- Suicides more likely during the school year

2

3

Outcries

- Outcries differ, especially given student age
 - Younger students may lack vocabulary to identify feelings
- Outcry may not be made to teacher or counselor
 - Critical to train all staff on campus to recognize and respond to outcries
 - A “trusted adult” for every student
- Outcry may not be specific to suicide
 - Some courts deem repeated reports of bullying to suffice

4

Suicide Contracts

- Controversial practice – not recommended
- Little empirical evidence supports contracts as effective tools to prevent suicide.
- Use of a suicide contract implies that the school counselor will ensure the student's safety, or of a binding agreement generally.
- Suicidal person is often not competent to sign a contract.
- Use of such suicide contracts may open district up to liability it could have otherwise avoided.

5

Student Privacy & Reporting Requirements

- District staff = professional reporters of abuse under TEC
 - 48 hours from when reasonably suspected abuse/neglect
- Counseling staff have additional ethical requirements
 - Generally, counselors required to keep confidentiality
 - Risk of harm trumps confidentiality

6

Find the full text of this and thousands of other resources from leading experts in dozens of legal practice areas in the UT Law CLE eLibrary \(utcle.org/elibrary\)

Title search: Student Suicide: Mental Health and Legal Response

Also available as part of the eCourse

2023 School Law eConference

First appeared as part of the conference materials for the 38th Annual School Law Conference session

"Student Suicide: Mental Health and Legal Response"