Ethics for Landmen

- Ethical Rules for land managers are set by the AAPL. AAPL Code of Ethics is behind slides in materials as Appendix A.
- In addition to Ethics Rules, there are “Best Practices.” These are also behind these slides as Appendix B.
- The goal of this self-regulation is to avoid formal legal/regulatory supervision of land management.
- Maximum punishment is expulsion from AAPL.

2

Ethics for Lawyers

- Model Rules of Professional Conduct established by ABA. Excerpts attached behind the slides as Appendix C.
- Maximum penalty is disbarment.
- Each state adopts own rules; each state almost always slightly changes the ABA Model Rules.
- Double check your own state rules if an issue catches your eye.

Negotiating with Landowner

- Landman Code §1: It is the primary duty of a Landman to establish and maintain goodwill with the public.
- Landman Best Practices 3, 4, & 5: protect public from discredit or damage from fraud, misrepresentation, unethical practices, and treat all parties fairly.

Negotiating with Landowner

- Lawyer general rule: zealously represent client.
- Model Rule 1.6: cannot disclose information learned during representation without consent of client.
- Model Rule 1.6: cannot use client information to the disadvantage of client (or former client under Model Rule 1.9).

Hypothetical #1

- AAPL CPL is also licensed attorney (“LL”).
- Company directs LL to negotiate deal with landowner.
- LL knows landowner is desperate and will agree to deal very favorable to company.
- LL also knows other companies are interested in same property.
