

2018 STUDIO WEBCAST: What Cognitive Science Can Tell Us about Jury Decision Making

July 20, 2018 • STUDIO WEBCAST

Friday Morning, July 20, 2018

10:00 am
1.00 hr

What Cognitive Science Can Tell Us about Jury Decision Making

What makes a bigger impression on a jury—your opening statement or closing argument? What causes jurors to conform to the pressures of others and can voir dire mitigate these effects? How do leading questions affect jury verdicts? These are just some of the questions cognitive science can help answer.

Alissa Sherry, Ph.D., Legal Consensus Forensic Evaluation - Austin, TX

11:00 am

Presentation Concludes